INVESTMENT COMMENT

In May, we allocated fund capital to investment ideas Astrapak, Astral Foods and Stefanutti Stocks, while raising capital from partial sales of Merafe, Blue Label Telecommunications, Iliad and Grand Parade. All the businesses on the selling side of our ledger had delivered strong price advancements ahead of their fundamental business value gains over the past year, thereby significantly reducing their respective margins of safety. One of the more interesting investments in the fund's current portfolio is that of JD Group. To recap: following a long period of business decline the controlling shareholder, Steinhoff, stepped in with a comprehensive turnaround package. In the process they've replaced the CEO, reshuffled the Board, bought out another 30-odd percent of the minorities and provided strategic financing and operational support to see the business through its turnaround. We elected not to sell the fund's JD Group shares to Steinhoff, for two key reasons; the primary one being that JD Group is significantly undervalued, and the secondary one being that we cannot think of a more credible turnaround expert than Steinhoff with significant skin in the game to take up the baton to fix what was still not working perfectly at JD Group. Part of the financing arranged by Steinhoff involves the equity recapitalisation of JD Group with a R1bn underwritten rights offer at R25 per share. We kept cash aside for this expected development and will be following the fund's rights.
