INVESTMENT COMMENT

Sun International has been a top holding in the Fund for some time. The investment case is based primarily on margins going back to more normal levels through a recovery in the hotel cycle and trimming of excess fat in the business by new management. The business possesses barriers to entry in the form of casino licenses in a highly regulated industry and although Sun City is likely to continue to be a drag on returns on capital, there have been a few positive developments within the group recently. These include Sun International selling a 40% stake in GrandWest and Worcester casinos to Tsogo in a deal worth almost R2,2bn reducing the probability of a competing casino in the area, changes to the border between Mpumalanga and Gauteng allowing Sun International to move its licence from the Morula Sun to Menlyn Park, Pretoria (a very lucrative largely untapped casino market), and the sale of most of its African hotel operations to Minor International (MINT) at a reasonable price, with a resulting improvement in the quality of earnings going forwards. Despite the share rising on the back of this news, the stock still represents good value at these levels.
