

RECM GLOBAL FUND (Class B)

Period ended 31 January 2014

RECM

The RECM Global Fund is a US dollar denominated global fund that may invest in a wide array of assets without any restrictions. The Fund's aim is to generate returns significantly greater than US inflation and commensurate with equities over the long term. The Fund invests mainly in large global companies at a significant discount to intrinsic value, while using the flexibility of the mandate to protect capital and enhance returns by investing in other mispriced global assets from time to time. We consider risk as the possibility of losing money, not in terms of volatility. Our main risk management tool is our investment philosophy. As value investors, we aim to buy and hold good quality companies and do so with a margin of safety. Our ability to move between asset classes assists in reducing the risk in the fund. The Offering Memorandum is available at www.recm.co.za.

INVESTMENT COMMENT

The largest purchase in the Fund over the past six months has been a new idea – Inpex, a Japanese oil and gas producer. The entire oil and gas sector appears to have fallen out of favour with investors, but Inpex stands out as the cheapest of the group. Inpex is busy developing the massive Ichty offshore project in Australia. As with most of these projects, there have been revisions to the expected project cost over time – upwards, of course! And given the dim view the market is currently taking of the capital intensity of global oil companies, it comes as no surprise that Inpex is priced for very poor long-term economics. Based on our work, we hold a more sanguine view and are quite excited about the long-term value on offer. As for sales, a group of European stocks dominate the table. The share prices of Carrefour, Titan Cement and Hellenic Exchanges all reacted strongly to the faintest glimmer of improved business conditions in their European markets.
